SUBJECT: Grievance Counselors

---

1. It is Agency policy and the Office of Logistics' (OL's) desire that employees have the opportunity to present grievances for prompt and equitable disposition. A grievance is an employee's expressed feeling (oral or written) of dissatisfaction with some aspects of his working conditions and relationships which are outside of his control. All employees and their supervisors are expected to be in regular communication regarding job performance, career development, working conditions, personality conflicts, or those areas that could develop into grievances. Employees are encouraged to avail themselves of counseling with panel members, personnel counselors in the Personnel and Training Staff, OL, or use the "open door" policy that is available within the supervisory structure. However, if the employee does not feel at ease with this approach or feels it does not provide equitable consideration, the employee has the opportunity to contact the OL grievance counselor or one of the assistants. An employee may discuss his complaint initially on an informal basis with a grievance counselor. Any discussions prior to the initiation of a formal complaint will be kept confidential at the employee's option. It is further understood that an employee with a grievance will not be vulnerable or suffer any reprisals as a result of efforts to use established grievance channels.

2. Effective immediately [REDACTED] he OL grievance counselor and [REDACTED] as assistant counselors.

TIME IN GRADE - While time in grade is a factor to be considered in competitive evaluation, it is neither the only nor necessarily the most significant factor in determining competitive rankings for promotion or other opportunities for advancement. Rather, it is one which, in the final analysis, is more properly weighed by Panel and Board members when the Careerists being evaluated are otherwise relatively equal in qualifications, experience, performance, and potential.
